

The Star-Ledger

May 30, 2008

How I returned to the real world

MICHAEL GOLDSTEIN:
Partner, HHG Development
Associates, Trenton

WHAT I DO: Rehab Trenton
residential properties

"For the mid-1990s through the mid-2000s, I focused my career on enabling virtual community Voxware, a company I founded and took public in 1994. Now, I'm working with two other partners to convert old buildings in Trenton into modern, sustainably green new residences. What good is the virtual community if we neglect the real one? With most of the land in New Jersey either developed or preserved, the state's nearly forgotten city centers are the new frontier, especially if you're tired of driving everywhere and looking to engage in a real community with your neighbors."